The Big Insurance Question...

Holidaying with a child who has hydrocephalus can feel scary. When Harry was first diagnosed, the thought of ever going on a holiday felt frankly ridiculous. Fast forward seven years and to my surprise, we have been on holiday (a few times) and guess what, we actually enjoyed it.

- Caz

Questions about Holiday Insurance for a child with hydrocephalus often features in the Harry's HAT inbox. So we asked hydro-families who have travelled to share companies that they have used. Here are their suggestions.

The caveat is that everyone is different! This list is just starting point to help your research. We should also point out that Harry's HAT doesn't endorse any policy or company but still, we hope this is helpful.

- Able 2 Travel - www.able2travel.com
- Avanti Travel Insurance - www.avantitravelinsurance.co.uk
- Staysure - www.staysure.co.uk
- The PostOffice - www.postoffice.co.uk/travel-insurance
- Insure and Go - www.insureandgo.com
- Fish Insurance - www.fishinsurance.co.uk

We have a page on our website with loads of helpful hints and tips about going on holiday. Please download and keep our free 'holiday help sheet' and fill out out emergency shunt and/or ETV sheet before your trip. We really hope you won't need them, but always best to be prepared in advance!
www.harrys-hat.org/get-help/holidays

A little plea from us!
If you are booking travel insurance online, some companies offer donations to good causes through Easy Fundraising. This means, that at no extra cost to you, the charity will get a small percentage of your spend. If you have the option to do this, then please consider supporting Harry's Hydrocephalus Awareness Trust (Harry's HAT). It doesn't cost you anything extra and helps generate unrestricted income which is vital for the charity.
www.easyfundraising.org.uk/causes/harrys-hydrocephalus-awareness-trust/